PROVED BY DEPOSIT SLIPS

Counsel for Lorimer Asserts Slips Were Juggled; Story of Chicago Detective.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Expressing his firm conviction that his father, former State Senator D. W. Holstlaw, received $2500 from a man who offered to pay him that sum to vote for Lorimer in the United States senate, Herschel D. Holstlaw, today appeared before the senate Lorimer committee and substantiated his father's famous "confession."

The father is too ill to appear, the son producing doctors' certificates to that effect.

The son was cashier of his father's bank on June 15, 1909, the date the father claims to have received the money from Senator John Broderick, and from knowledge obtained in that position, and from talking with his father, he said today on the stand that deposit slips he put in evidence proved that his father received the money.

The son told the story of how the Holstlaw family received the blow of the father's confession and of his father telling him that every word of it was true.

Such plain speaking on a question fraught with possibilities of a great European war has not been heard in the British parliament in years. The outcome of the situation appears to rest almost wholly on Germany's shoulders.

German officials, and those who are in the German newspapers, profess to think that Chancellor Lloyd George's recent speech of warning was not addressed to Germany, but a sort of general prohibition of principles. Mr. Asquith, however, leaves no doubt and was intended plainly to leave none on that point.

While the country has no knowledge of the extent of Germany's first conditions, the prime minister made it plain.

ENGLISH WILL FIGHT UNLESS KAISER QUILTS

Prime Minister Asquith Delivers Carefully Prepared Warning to Germany in House of Commons.

OPPOSITION LEADER PLEDGES SUPPORT

Pessimistic View Taken in London Over Moroccan Situation; France Hopes for Peaceful Solution.

LONDON, July 28.—The first division of the home fleet stationed at Portland has been ordered to coal and complete its supplies with oil fuel by this morning. Operations will continue throughout the night.

LONDON, July 27.—The most pessimistic view regarding the acuteness of the Moroccan crisis was confirmed by the prime minister in the house of commons today when he read from a manuscript, which had been carefully prepared, a warning to Germany that Great Britain proposed to stand for what she considered her rights and to maintain the balance of power in Europe.

Further testimony of the gravity of the situation is given by the fact that the prime minister obviously had taken the leader of the opposition into the government's confidence and Mr. Balfour's declaration was no less firm than Mr. Asquith's.

The prime minister's statement was couched in diplomatic though not reassuring language. At the very opening he said:

"It is obvious that this Moroccan question has reached a point at which it will become increasingly difficult, embarrassing and anxious unless a solution is found."

Later he said:

"We thought it right from the beginning to make clear that, failing of settlement such as I have indicated, we must become an active party in the discussion of the situation. That would be our right as a signatory to the treaty of Algeiras, as it might be our obligation under the terms of our agreement of 1904 with France. It might be our duty in defense of British interests directly affected by further developments."

In promising the support of the opposition to the government, Mr. Balfour said:

"If there are any who supposed that we would be with the map of Europe, we must have our difficulties at home, it may be worth while saying that the British people and the patriotism of the opposition."

Such plain speaking on a question fraught with possibilities of a great European war has not been heard in the British parliament in years. The outcome of the situation appears to rest almost wholly on Germany's shoulders.

SECRET AGENTS ARE BUSY

Sherman Law, as Interpreted by the United States Supreme Court, to Be Enforced.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The department of justice is planning immediate prosecution of all trusts or monopolies which do not dissolve or take other steps to obey the Sherman law as it has been interpreted in the Standard Oil, Tobacco and Powder trust cases. Attorney General Wickham is authorized for the statement.

To make the Sherman law effective, the department's anti-trust bureau is now being worked to its capacity. Probably 1000 complaints of existing monopolies, restraints or illegal agreements to control the price of commodities, ranging from feather dusters to telephones, are being investigated. The secret agents of the bureau have been scattered all over the country, and in many instances an investigation of an alleged trust is going on in a dozen states at the same time.

One of the promised results of this policy is that the government will have in the courts before the end of the calendar year probably a dozen anti-trust suits.

In a broad sense the government's anti-trust actions may be divided into two classes—those to which the Sherman law, as interpreted by the supreme court, directly applies, and those where the additional question of control of property by ownership of patents is involved. The cases now pending against the United Shoe Machinery company present questions regarding patents.

FIGHT ON FLOOR OF HOUSE PREVENTED

Two Irish Members of the British Commons Exchange Compliments and Create a Scene.

LONDON, July 27.—There was a lively interlude from the Nationalist benches in the house of commons this afternoon in the form of exchange of compliments, William O'Brien, leader of the Independent Nationalists, complained to the speaker that he had been insulted by questions put by Thomas Lunden, Nationalist for the east division of Limerick, who asserted that O'Brien was the descendant of the most blackguardly informer that ever appeared in Ireland.

O'Brien refused to retract the statement, O'Brien shouted:

"You are an infamous liar and a scoundrel."

Lunden made a dive for the independent leader, but friends seized his coat tails and the incident was closed. It had indicated, however, how baseless are all the reports of a truce between the Nationalists and the Liberals.

DROUILLARD'S SLAYER SECOND DOCTOR HOLMES

Widow of Dr. Chisholm's Victim Recalls Weird and Mystic Experience of Dream.

DOCTOR MAY FACE OTHER CHARGES

Belief Expressed That Physician Is Responsible for Disappearance of Several Women.

MR. JENNIE J. DROUILLARD, a Salt Lake woman living at the Zimmerman apartments, at 10 street and First avenue, who long search for her missing husband resulted in the shocking discovery Wednesday evening that he had been murdered months before in California, has now received reports which not only further confirm the story as published exclusively in yesterday's edition of The Tribune, but throw additional light on the atrocious crime and point to the woman's husband as the only one who could have been a victim of the same murderous hand.

Details of the proceedings against Dr. L. C. Chisholm of Santa Rosa, who has begun a life sentence at Folsom prison in California for the murder of Vanier K. Drouillard, husband of the Salt Lake woman, reached Mrs. Drouillard yesterday, uncovering the physician's plot to foully murder his friend and associate, in order that he and woman accomplice might secure about $2000 on a life insurance policy. The reports indicate that Dr. Chisholm, known to Drouillard years before in Tennessee and that he made use of his acquaintance and native bond to further the purpose of the crime.

Other Crimes Suspected.

Dispatches received last night advise that Drouillard's slayer may now be brought back from Folsom prison to be tried for the murder of Miss Minnie Fassel, a young woman whose body was found on Mount Tamalpais, across the bay from San Francisco, two years ago. The advices state that the investigation is being conducted by the California state police, and that at least six other women, with whom Dr. Chisholm had boasted of intimacy, and who at different times mysteriously disappeared, are being traced by the police.

Mrs. Drouillard, who has been in Los Angeles to come to Salt Lake to visit her sister, Mrs. J. F. Macgregor, last August, her husband at the same time went to San Francisco and was seen to join a friend, with whom he had become interested in a business project, and who was a woman, explaining his movements.

Falls in One Venture.

"From San Francisco he went to San Jose," said Mrs. Drouillard, who has been in Los Angeles to come to Salt Lake to visit her sister, Mrs. J. F. Macgregor, last August, her husband at the same time went to San Francisco and was seen to join a friend, with whom he had become interested in a business project, and who was a woman, explaining his movements.

"The scheme in which he was originally interested fell through, according to his letters to me, and he was then thinking of meeting another friend, Harry Gilmore, with whom he expected to enter into newspaper work. Mr. Gilmore had left for California to become permanently located there, and my husband returned to San Francisco."

"About the middle of January he wrote me that he had met a Tennesseean by the name of Calhoun, who had invited him to join in a prospecting trip into the Shoshone mountains. Another letter written toward the end of January set forth that the man Calhoun had made him his partner in the prospecting trip, and that unless I heard again within two days I would know that he had been shot."

"I had never heard of the man my husband called Calhoun before. The letter only mentioned his name, without giving any address, and I was a Tennesseean, whom he had met by accident and who had proved to be a warm friend, with a business opportunity to offer. The native bond and former acquaintance with each other or another's family connections, I am sure led my husband into a wayward venture which would otherwise have existed between them. However, without really knowing why, my husband's association with this man filled me with a strange fear. I did not want him to make the proposed trip. So intense was my feeling of apprehension and misgiving that I at once sat down and wrote my husband, begging him not to go, no matter what the inducement might be."

"In the letter above referred to, Mr. Drouillard wrote that Calhoun had said to him, 'We are going to a mighty old gold mine of this city.'"
